PRINCESS WILHELMINA TAMED FIERY HORSE AT LOS ANGELES

Miss Wilhelmina Weight of Hilo is the heroine of a story from Los Angeles in the Examiner, because of her splendid horsemanship. The Examiner says:

Princess Wilhelmina of Hawaii took a high-spirited horse figuratively under her thumb yesterday and sat upon it in the most literal manner.

It had been arranged that the princess should ride in this morning's parade wearing her ancestral robes, but the charming young Hawaiian had made up her mind very definitely that first of all she would know the manners of the necessary horse.

Noble McCandless and other Hawaiian Shriners immediately on hearing this proclamation commenced a far and wide search for a horse that knew how to parade.

Someone got a clue that Ralph, the black horse that had been especially purchased for the Knights' Templar convalesce in San Francisco, was passing away an unrecognized existence here.

Ralph is Discovered. They learned that Ralph was in the possession of Dr. Conrad Deichmiller of this city, and permission was speedily granted that the princess might try him.

Prior to this she had tried other horses, but each had displayed a placid disposition not to the liking of the princess.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning a small party set out toward Westlake Park from the Lankerheim Hotel to try out Ralph.

The princess will ride in her stockinged feet in the parade; therefore, it had been necessary to wrap the stirrups in velvet.

The Hawaiian leaped to the back of the horse like an acrobat. A moment before she had been luxuriously sitting back in the Hudson 32, which has been at her disposal here. The metamorphosis was startling.

Whip Pleases Charger.

"Giddyap," she cried, and Ralph moved along, slowly.

"I'm afraid he is not going to do," she said.

"Try him with the whip, very gently," suggested one.

"Whoopie!" cried Princess Wilhelmina of the Hawaiians. While even the automobiles shied and Ralph diminished down the perspective like the proverbial arrow. The rider looked like the human half of a centaur, though, as she held her seat and while she dodged street cars and things, she began to reason with Ralph. At first he would not listen, so the princess began to argue firmly.

Fifteen minutes later she returned to the waiting group.

"Now I think this horse will be all right," she said. "Good-bye, Ralph, see you tomorrow."

LOOK FOR SOME COMPROMISE FOR PRESIDENT NOW

BY C. S. ALBERT.

(Special Bulletin Correspondence.) WASHINGTON, D. C., May 19.—Republican politicians have finally taken up the advisability of nominating a dark horse as a substitute for Mr. Taft. William Barnes Jr., the New York boss, suggested the necessity for this course several weeks ago, but was pooh-poohed into silence. Following the results in Pennsylvania and later in Massachusetts, Mr. Barnes called attention to his advice and intimated that it might be a good plan to follow it before a Democrat became President.

And so it transpired that all the big leaders took up the suggestion of William Barnes. It daily developed that if Mr. Taft were nominated his defeat would be certain as a result of the bitter feud that has recently raged between his followers and those of Colonel Roosevelt. It seemed absolutely assured that much knifing would be inevitable in November and Democratic triumph would be equally certain. The folly of nominating Mr. Taft has been much discussed. The feeling has steadily grown that some other selection must be made for the good of the Republican party. Mr. Taft has not yet been taken into these councils, but had heard of them.

Burton Good Compromise. At first the name of Charles E. Hughes, associate justice of the Supreme Court, bobbed up most frequently. A tribe later the name of Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio was mentioned on all sides and quite a boom was inflated. It was immediately realized that Senator Burton would prove to be an ideal compromise candidate. He is a straight-out party man, but with sufficient insincerity to oppose anything that he considers detrimental to the general welfare. Since his service in the Senate Mr. Burton has often voted with the radical Progressives, such as La Follette, Bristow and Clapp. His high standing and eminent ability are recognized. The only objection raised to him is based on the fact that he is a bachelor and some have classified him as a woman-hater. But, still, Buchanan and Cleveland managed to struggle along in the White House without a first lady of the land, to say nothing of Arthur and Harrison after his wife's death. Otherwise, Mr. Burton is the most popular suggestion yet made in the nature of a dark-horse candidate.

Think Taft Too Deep in Fight. The advisability of sidetracking Mr. Taft is not based at all on the belief that he can not secure the nomination. Republican managers do not by any means concede that Col. Roosevelt can obtain a majority of the delegates to the Chicago convention. It is merely regarded as party suicide to make Mr. Taft the standard-bearer after the desperate controversy that has been raging since the colonel tossed his hat into the ring and has since been intensified by the open attacks upon each other.

Other names than that of Mr. Burton will doubtless be brought forward as the search for a dark horse progresses. William E. Borah, Senator from Idaho, has been mentioned, but he is considered a better selection for Vice President than as head of the ticket.

Simon E. Baldwin, Governor of Connecticut, is the latest entry in the Presidential race. The Democrats of Connecticut gave him the four delegates at large to the Baltimore convention and instructed them to present Governor Baldwin's name. The various districts are following this lead and he will have the solid support of the State's delegation.

Clark continues to pick up stray delegates everywhere and now has a strong lead for the Democratic nomination. The two-thirds rule is all that stands in the way of his ultimate success.

Oscar W. Underwood's stock has materially advanced in value. He carried Georgia and Florida with a hurrah and his friends feel greatly encouraged.

Representative McKinley, manager of the Taft campaign, claims the President will easily have 100 votes to spare at Chicago. This he denied with equal positiveness by Senator Dixon, in charge of the Roosevelt camp. Each furnishes figures daily to substantiate his predictions, and the wayfarer must sit up all night and make his own calculations.

MAUI NOTES

(Special Bulletin Correspondence.) WAILUKU, Maui, May 25.—Rev. R. B. Dodge will speak at the Kaunohiuli Endeavor meeting at the Kaunohiuli Church, Wailuku, next Thursday evening. Memorial Day. Chas. Wilcox spoke last Thursday evening to a large and appreciative audience on missions in the East, especially on the Hilo work of Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

A benefit for the luau and fair to be given at the Armory, Honolulu, on June 1st, was given at the Wailuku Orpheum last Tuesday evening, assisted by members of the choir of the Church of the Good Shepherd of Wailuku under direction of Rev. W. S. Short, rector, and also Mr. Geo. Kaa's orchestra of seven stringed instruments. There was a large audience present and the choir rendered a superb and high-class piece that opened the eyes of those present of the presence on Maui of a choir of which Rev. Bishop Restarick recently stated from the pulpit of the Church of the Good Shepherd, "A choir which any church in Honolulu would be proud to own." Mr. Kaa's orchestra was enthusiastically encored. Mr. Keola read a piece entitled "St. Peter at the Gate." From the proceeds which the Orpheum management graciously allowed, a certain percentage towards the benefit, Miss Carrie Short selected fancy articles made by the Maunaloa Seminary girls which will be sent next Tuesday for sale in one of the booths at the Fair.

There will be a musical entertainment at the Maunaloa Seminary, Miss Eva L. Heunser principal, assisted by Miss Harriet Lay, assistant principal, and the music teacher of the seminary, this Saturday evening. Fancy articles made by the pupils will be exhibited for sale at the close of the entertainment. This annual event has always been largely attended in the past by the many friends of this, one of the oldest institutions of learning in these islands.

Alu, the Chinaman who was shot in the forehead on the evening of Sunday, May 12th, is still alive at the Pala Hospital. In answer to a telephone message, the head nurse replied this afternoon that he was a little worse.
